 Mentor Session

Meet Your Mentor

Thursday (3 Hr.)

 SHOW & TELL

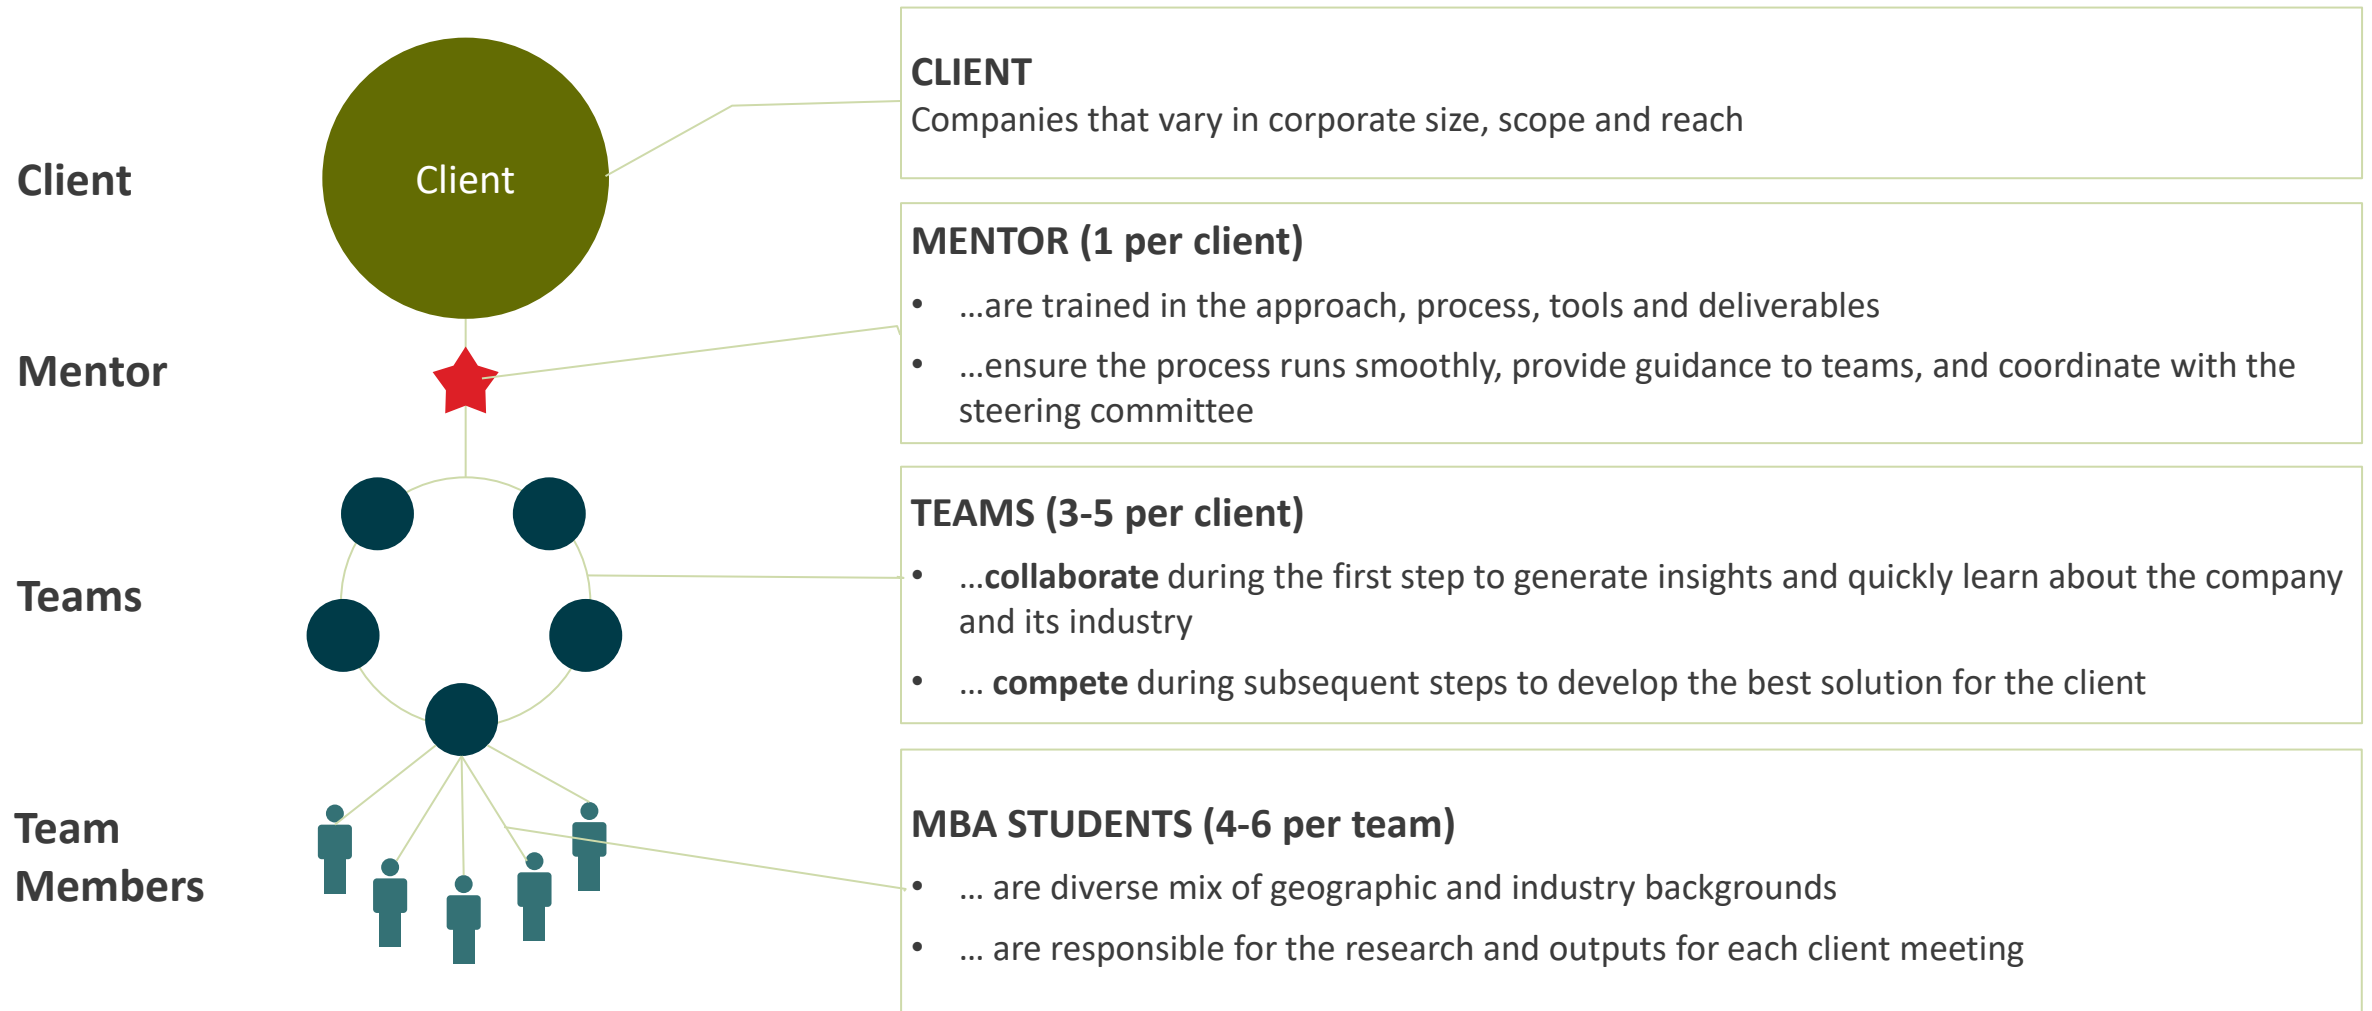

Present to your client

Thursday (3 Hr.)

Note: Sept 28th is Korean Holiday
Final presentation day is Dec. 14th

Each client has one mentor and will have 3-5 teams working for them, with each team comprised of 4-6 MBA students

Students will have a real-life experience working on real challenge of real clients and be able to apply all tools and techniques learned during their MBA

What It Is

1. A real-life experience working on real challenge of real clients
2. Application of all the tools and techniques you learned in your MBA (e.g., finance, operations, marketing, consulting, innovation, project management, etc.)
3. The students will address ONE key question: “Where is the next innovation and growth opportunities for the company?”
4. The AP is a “safe environment” to practice and learn how to work in a team and provide feedback to members

What It's NOT

1. AP is NOT intended to provide you specific industry or company experience
2. AP is NOT intended to provide you job opportunities
3. AP is NOT intended for you to get extensive information / reports / answers from the client
4. AP is NOT for you to do personal travels or take a vacation
5. You do NOT choose your company or your team
6. Mentors are NOT intended to do project work or be available 24/7 or for last minute requests
7. Team members may NOT get the same final grade

Agenda

- Introduction to the Innovation Olympics
- Detail Process
- Clients

The students will use a five-step process to help companies identify their next strategic growth and the initial pipeline of business concepts

1. Define the key question

Description of IO Challenge Stage

- IXL Innovation Olympics and your leadership team works together to define your challenge, formulate the key question and create a kickoff presentation to launch the competition
- Past challenges focused on:
 - Growth Gap
 - Case for Growth
 - Investment Profile

2. Clients explain the company's explicit need for innovation

Description of IO Challenge Stage

- At the program's kickoff, clients communicate to consultant teams:
 - Case for change
 - Size and timing of emerging issue
 - Innovation boundaries
 - Investment profiles
 - Introduction to The company's business
- Teams and clients set mutually agreed expectations
 - Demanding standard of excellence
 - Professionalism
 - Clients will advance the best ideas for further development

3. Five teams uncover insights that reveal new growth opportunities

Description of IO Challenge Stage

- Each of five teams work independently to discover new growth opportunities for the client by:
 - Conducting primary and secondary research
 - Organizing data into business opportunity map
 - Extracting trends and insights
- Teams present reports to the client, who receives five separate perspectives on potential areas of growth

4. Teams identify new opportunity areas for the company to develop a pipeline of products and services for big growth

Description of IO Challenge Stage

Each team:

- Pinpoints optimal fields-of-play for company by:
 - Exploring areas of new opportunity
 - Assessing which fields-of-play can foster a pipeline of products and services for future growth
 - Ranking each area on multiple criteria
- Identifies new opportunity areas
- Ranks new fields-of-plays
- Refines selected new field-of-play

5. Teams develop portfolios of business concepts for their selected field-of-play, prioritizing one concept for further development

Description of IO Challenge Stage

Each team:

- Presents strategic priorities to client, narrowing focus and prioritizing the various fields-of-play the team should further pursue
- Identifies portfolios of business concept tied to selected field-of-play
- Populates pipeline with new products/services to drive client's future growth
- Reverse engineer success factors

6. Teams each present their final business case with recommendations on how their client can start pursuing the proposed growth opportunity

Description of IO Challenge Stage

- After guidance from their client on focus, each team fleshes out details for their clients' chosen business concept
- High-level business plans are developed for the selected concept
- Plan of action mapped out for company, recommending steps to initiate opportunity
- Specific business cases are presented to client in final team presentation

7. IXL reviews all the findings from the five teams, builds its own recommendations and helps clients make decisions around the issues

Description of IO Challenge Stage

- As a culminating final stage, IXL will synthesize integrated findings culled from five individual teams
- Led by an IXL senior consultant for key stakeholders, a workshop will socialize findings, create alignment and commitment for next steps, and prioritize key concepts to implement
- Provides strategic choices for investment
- Helps client drive decisions for implementation
